

Whether your organization is planning its first energy efficiency program or seeking innovative new opportunities for furthering its goals, MEEA can help you maximize value and minimize costly learning curves through expert, affordable Advisory Services.

Program Design, Launch and Administration

Since 2000, through our Advisory Services, MEEA has assisted in the design, launch and administration of energy efficiency programs for the following types of entities, among others:

- Investor-owned utilities
- Municipal utilities
- Rural utility cooperatives
- State and municipal jurisdictions

We work with you to help set and reach your energy efficiency goals by tailoring proven programs, emerging technologies and best practices to your particular needs.

If you're new to the process and/or lack the resources to develop and run energy efficiency programs internally, MEEA supports you with practical experience and an expert turnkey staff.

If your established energy efficiency programs are reaching diminishing returns, MEEA supports you with informed vision and a broad collaborative network that can help identify and implement new ways of reaching your goals.

Review and Evaluation

If you'd like to access MEEA's Advisory Services on a less comprehensive basis, we can assist you in the review and evaluation of the following critical program components:

- Program design (existing and proposed)
- Request-for-proposal (RFP) design
- Vendor RFP responses
- Program administration and results
